Positive Discipline Classroom Management model: developing mutually respectful relationships.

Content:
Educators aim to provide their children a safe and fun environment to learn. Teaching practices have evolved as children have been exposed to different community needs throughout the years. New practices and teaching models have proven that providing independency, encouragement, respect and responsibility to early learners is the key for a successful classroom environment. Positive Discipline teaches adults to employ kindness and firmness at the same time, and is neither punitive nor permissive. As a result children have a sense of belonging and significance, respect, concern for others, problem solving, and cooperation as well as the skills to contribute to the home, school or larger community.

Methods:
An interactive workshop and classroom situations will be presented. Students will be able to share their expectations, experiences and discuss the benefits of trying to implement Positive Discipline in your teaching methods.

Competences and skills to be acquired:
- Tools to an effective long-term teaching model.
- Providing a constructive sense of belonging, which leads to having children establishing a connection to their community, family, and school therefore they become less likely to misbehave.
