National Health Services in UK

Content:
This course is about how the National Health Services in UK work in comparison to Germany.

Methods:
- Lectures
- Workshops
- self-directed study

Competences and skills to be acquired:
Students will develop their critical skills and will be able to consider ways of applying some new perspectives to the specific situations presented by both staff management and the management of service users (clients) in a non-profit social management context.

Prerequisites:
There are no specific prerequisites, although some knowledge of German health services would be helpful.

Language of instruction: English

Recommended for: Social Studies